

Don't Send Out of Town

We Stock everything in the line of Stationery

We Print everything that needs printing and Guarantee Satisfaction

We Now have on hand a large supply of the well-known

"Ink-Thirst"

BLOTTING PAPER

which we supply in any form, either blank or printed. Every office or business establishment directly for the BLOTTER METHOD of advertising.

Mail Orders receive prompt attention

THE BELLEVUE TIMES

Office of Publication
Blairmore, Alberta.
Subscriptions to all parts of the Dominion
$2.00 per annum. Foreign subscriptions
$2.50. Payable in advance.
Business locals, 15c. per line.
Legal notices 15c. per line for first insertion;
10c. per line for each subsequent insertion.
Display Advertising Rates on Application.
W. J. BARRETT, Proprietor.

Bellevue, Alta., Fri., May 30, 1913

The season is now ripe for business. Why don't you get busy?

Now that "rushing the census" is a thing of the past, the council of Blairmore should encourage the immediate operation of the brewery.

It is poor policy to expect to make your wealth from the people of the town in which you live and give only Eaton's the opportunity of deriving a profit from you.

A passer-by on the street in Blairmore yesterday stated that the cleaning up of the streets and highways has enhanced the real value of property over 50 per cent.

A firm is known not only by the display of drapery in their windows, but by the class of stationery used. The rubber stamp is a bad omen, and its user is not entitled to local patronage.

The C.P.R. are awakening to the possibilities of Blairmore becoming the commercial centre of The Pass, and there is every reason to believe that they would favorably consider the petition of the town to allow for a two-sided Victoria Street.

A person who has been your customer, but who has never had occasion to visit and inspect your store and the nature of your dealings, will measure you up by the style and quality of the sheet containing his monthly statement. A live bill-head is a live advertisement and is worth a thousand patent or artificial devices.

To Issue Souvenir Folder

Messrs. Brownell and McLagay are getting some excellent views of the principal manufacturing establishments and business places of the town, with which it is intended to issue a publicity folder similar to those adopted by many of the leading manufacturing and trade centres of the Dominion. The work will be turned out by The Enterprise and with a guaranteed output of ten thousand, which will be gotten up equal in design to anything yet attempted in this line in the Province, should meet with the support of the advertising public. The time has arrived when Blairmore should rise to the opportunity for a systematic publicity campaign. There is not a portion of the whole province of Alberta which has better resources, better advantages and facilities than has this portion of the Crow's Nest Pass, and any effort put forth for the establishment of a reliable publicity scheme should receive the hearty appreciation and support of everyone interested in the future welfare and advancement of the district.

An advertisement does for the advertiser what a non-advertiser can never do for himself.

Dick Marshall, of Hilderest, who defeated Al. Faign at Fernie on Saturday night

WEST CANADIAN COLLIERIES LIMITED

Miners of

Steam, Coking and Domestic

COAL

MINES AT BLAIRMORE AND BELLEVUE

LEAD OFFICE AT

BLAIRMORE - - ALTA.

We Don't Wait FOR PURCHASERS

We go out and Find Them

If you have property at Calgary, Lethbridge, Macleod, Vancouver, at home, or elsewhere, that you desire to enlist for sale, write or see us at once.

J. M. CARTER

REAL ESTATE ADVISOR

Phone 161

Blairmore, - Alberta

COSMOPOLITAN HOTEL!

A. A. SPARKS, Prop.

SOLID BRICK STRUCTURE
STEAM HEATED THROUGHOUT
BEST AND MOST ELABORATE
HOTEL IN SOUTHERN ALBERTA

RATES: Per month $35.00 and $40.00 for board and room. Meal Tickets $8.00

BLAIRMORE

ALBERTA

YOUR BLOOD IS TAINTED

ULCERS, BOILS, SWOLLEN GLANDS, BLOTCHES, PIMPLES, AND ALL SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES ARE COMPLETELY CURED BY THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT

We desire to call the attention of all those afflicted with any blood or skin disease to a New Method Treatment. It is a scientific method of treatment that cures in 7 to 10 days for any person having a taint of face from eruptions and blotches. We consider whether hereditary or acquired, our specific medicine and treatment treatment all diseases in the blood and expel them from the system. Our vast experience in the treatment of all blood and skin diseases has enabled us to perfect a cure without resorting to any of the old methods of the New Method Treatment. The skin becomes clear, ulcers, pimples and blotches heal up, enlarged glands are reduced, fairer skin develops in again, the eyes become bright, ambition and energy return, and the victim realizes a new life and opens up to you can arrange to pay after you are cured.

CONSULTATION FREE

Send for Booklet on Diseases of Skin "THE GOLDEN MONITOR" FREE. If unable to call, write for a Question List for Home Treatment.

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY
Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor office which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows: DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont. Write for our private address.

If You Don't Advertise

You might as well choose out

YOUR BUSINESS BURIAL PLOT

OPERA HOUSE

ONE NIGHT ONLY

SATURDAY, MAY 31

The Peer of Them All. FRANK RICH CO. Presenting :-

"VARIETY ISLE"

A Pretty Story in Two Acts

10 - Sunshine Girls - 10

25 MUSICAL NUMBERS 25

Carload of Scenery

Prices: 75c and $1.00

Bellevue is living up to the times in the line of buildings. Foundations for an opera house and large business block, as well as plans for a number of residences speak for the future. Bellevue today is one of the most prosperous mining camps in the Province and the output as well as the payroll is gradually on the increase. The proposed new school promises to be equal to the educational institution of any other town in The Pass, and the ready sale made of school debentures adds considerably to the faith held in the possibilities of Bellevue.

How Editors get Rich

After a great deal of worry and study we have at last figured out how so many country editors get rich. Here is the secret of their success. There is a child born in the neighborhood. The attending physician gets $10. The editor gives the long-limbed youngster a great good-bye and gets $0. It is christened, and the minister gets $5 and the editor gets $00. It grows and marries. The editor publishes another long-winded flowery article and tells a dozen lies about "the beautiful and accomplished bride." The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake. The editor gets $000 and a request to carry the groom's subscription account another year. In the course of time she dies. The doctor gets from $5 to $100, the editor publishes a notice of death and an obituary two columns long, lodge resolutions, a lot of poetry and a card of thanks and gets $0.000. No wonder so many country editors get rich.—Exchange.

ERIE GRAY Unknown Fate Brought Out Who She Was

By ESTHER VANDEVER

My mother died when I was a little girl, and my father when I was twelve. I understood from my father that the estate left by my father would give me a comfortable income, and since I had no ties at home, I concluded to travel. Hearing of friends about to sail for Europe, I secured an invitation to be one of their party.

Before going I met my home in order and did what I had been long aware of doing. I looked over family papers that had been accumulating for years. There was a trunk full of them, and I had about examining them with a view to destroying such as could be of no further use. Many of them needed but a hasty glance, and some merely needed that I found one envelope marked "Harriet Gray" and, opening it, I looked out a number of miscellaneous papers, consisting mostly of receipts and bills. They were all so old that I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

I had no knowledge of business matters, and I had I don't if I should have considered these documents of any importance. They were largely receipts and bills, and I had no idea of their value. I had no idea of their value. I had no idea of their value.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"I had made all necessary arrangements, I went abroad. During my journey I fell in with various persons, among them a young man named Schuyler. Ned Schuyler was seeing Europe on sight."

"My first sight of him was one evening when sitting on the porch of an hotel in the bank of one of the rivers. I saw him coming up the road with the spring step of youth and evidently as light hearted as if he had had a letter of credit in his pocket for 100,000 francs. He sat opposite at the inn and in the evening made the acquaintance of our party."

"The place being attractive as well as picturesque, we all remained there for some time, boating on the lake, climbing the mountains bordering on the lake, and the nights in the neighborhood. Somehow in all these excursions I came to know him better. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

to me, but I could not tell in what part of the voyage I thought a good deal about it, and one day it occurred to me that I had confused the names of the two men. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

One morning while reading a newspaper I saw the following notice:

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"I had made all necessary arrangements, I went abroad. During my journey I fell in with various persons, among them a young man named Schuyler. Ned Schuyler was seeing Europe on sight."

"My first sight of him was one evening when sitting on the porch of an hotel in the bank of one of the rivers. I saw him coming up the road with the spring step of youth and evidently as light hearted as if he had had a letter of credit in his pocket for 100,000 francs. He sat opposite at the inn and in the evening made the acquaintance of our party."

"The place being attractive as well as picturesque, we all remained there for some time, boating on the lake, climbing the mountains bordering on the lake, and the nights in the neighborhood. Somehow in all these excursions I came to know him better. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

NEW NECKWEAR.

What the Spring Girl Will Wear About Her Pretty Throat.

High collars are struggling for the place with the low ones, and the women in Denmark and in other countries are not likely to succeed. The illustration shows two of the newest and most attractive neck fashions of the season. The hygienic effect even with advice to the particularly

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"I had made all necessary arrangements, I went abroad. During my journey I fell in with various persons, among them a young man named Schuyler. Ned Schuyler was seeing Europe on sight."

"My first sight of him was one evening when sitting on the porch of an hotel in the bank of one of the rivers. I saw him coming up the road with the spring step of youth and evidently as light hearted as if he had had a letter of credit in his pocket for 100,000 francs. He sat opposite at the inn and in the evening made the acquaintance of our party."

"The place being attractive as well as picturesque, we all remained there for some time, boating on the lake, climbing the mountains bordering on the lake, and the nights in the neighborhood. Somehow in all these excursions I came to know him better. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

WOMEN OF DENMARK.

By a Rule, They Are Wage Earners Even Though Married.

There is an outstanding point of difference between the activities of the women in Denmark and in other countries. In Denmark the wife is an economic independent for women throughout their lives.

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"I had made all necessary arrangements, I went abroad. During my journey I fell in with various persons, among them a young man named Schuyler. Ned Schuyler was seeing Europe on sight."

"My first sight of him was one evening when sitting on the porch of an hotel in the bank of one of the rivers. I saw him coming up the road with the spring step of youth and evidently as light hearted as if he had had a letter of credit in his pocket for 100,000 francs. He sat opposite at the inn and in the evening made the acquaintance of our party."

"The place being attractive as well as picturesque, we all remained there for some time, boating on the lake, climbing the mountains bordering on the lake, and the nights in the neighborhood. Somehow in all these excursions I came to know him better. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

THE ZERO MARK.

Origin of the Mathematical Symbol That Stands For Nothing.

It is the peculiar triumph of the mathematicians who constructed the Hindu Arabic numerals that they were led to invent a symbol for "nothing."

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"I had made all necessary arrangements, I went abroad. During my journey I fell in with various persons, among them a young man named Schuyler. Ned Schuyler was seeing Europe on sight."

"My first sight of him was one evening when sitting on the porch of an hotel in the bank of one of the rivers. I saw him coming up the road with the spring step of youth and evidently as light hearted as if he had had a letter of credit in his pocket for 100,000 francs. He sat opposite at the inn and in the evening made the acquaintance of our party."

"The place being attractive as well as picturesque, we all remained there for some time, boating on the lake, climbing the mountains bordering on the lake, and the nights in the neighborhood. Somehow in all these excursions I came to know him better. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

MEETING A CABLE.

The Snapping of a Submarine Line Entails Hard Work.

LOCATING THE BREAK IS EASY. This is Accomplished by the Use of a Special Instrument to Find the Cause of the Difficulty.

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"I had made all necessary arrangements, I went abroad. During my journey I fell in with various persons, among them a young man named Schuyler. Ned Schuyler was seeing Europe on sight."

"My first sight of him was one evening when sitting on the porch of an hotel in the bank of one of the rivers. I saw him coming up the road with the spring step of youth and evidently as light hearted as if he had had a letter of credit in his pocket for 100,000 francs. He sat opposite at the inn and in the evening made the acquaintance of our party."

"The place being attractive as well as picturesque, we all remained there for some time, boating on the lake, climbing the mountains bordering on the lake, and the nights in the neighborhood. Somehow in all these excursions I came to know him better. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

WATCHING WATER FREEZE.

An Easy Way to Make the Growth of Ice Crystals Visible.

It is not commonly known that fresh water may sometimes be "colder than ice" and that the growth of ice crystals may be made visible in a very interesting experiment to show this may easily be made.

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"I had made all necessary arrangements, I went abroad. During my journey I fell in with various persons, among them a young man named Schuyler. Ned Schuyler was seeing Europe on sight."

"My first sight of him was one evening when sitting on the porch of an hotel in the bank of one of the rivers. I saw him coming up the road with the spring step of youth and evidently as light hearted as if he had had a letter of credit in his pocket for 100,000 francs. He sat opposite at the inn and in the evening made the acquaintance of our party."

WILLING TO GIVE CREDIT.

Jefferson's Admirer Was Missed, But He Was Willing to Give Credit.

Jefferson was the most delightful story teller I have ever met, written in the century, during the "The Human Side of Joseph Jefferson."

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

LOCATING THE BREAK IS EASY.

This is Accomplished by the Use of a Special Instrument to Find the Cause of the Difficulty.

The handsome estate building, No. 11, street, has been finished and is now ready for occupancy. Occupants of the building in the neighborhood are to be congratulated, for the lot on which the building has been erected remained vacant for many years. It was formerly a part of the Ogilvie estate, which at the death of Edward Ogilvie fell into litigation.

Here was the name, Edward Ogilvie, starting me in the face again. I recalled that I had seen the name in the papers and papers and determined to get them out again and learn if this notice had any connection with them. I read the description of the last name in the deed, and, while there was no number in the street, the name was the same as that on which the new building was located.

Had I connected Ned Schuyler with the matter I should have been eager to see more of him. I had no idea of their value, but on one of the business streets in the city in which I lived, the maker of the bill having transferred the property "in consideration of $1." I didn't think the paper of much importance, the bill being of so little value. The envelope also contained a bill drawn by Edward Ogilvie in favor of Harriet Gray.

"Who was the owner, Edward Ogilvie, and what had my father told to do with this building of which I had no idea?"

"Edward Ogilvie owned the lot on which this building of which I had no idea?"

"Who was Harriet Gray?"

"My Ogilvie's stepdaughter. Mr. Ogilvie's children were named Harriet and John. It was supposed that he had left his property to her. But he died before she was born. However, I concluded to put these papers, together with a few others I thought I should not destroy, in a box. The other papers I burned."

"The last of these meetings abroad was a meeting at a place where I had never any other conditions. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship. He was a pleasant fellow, and we became intimate, and there were more matches made than I could remember. At any rate, my acquaintance with him was not a match, but a friendship."

Happenings in and Around Blairmore

The C. P. R. adopt the summer schedule on Sunday.

Mrs. Jas. Redfern, of Passburg, was in town on Monday.

L. M. Perkins was over from Cranbrook on Saturday.

Detective Fyler came up from Macleod on Wednesday.

Now the Chief of police is accused of "rushing the cans!"

The Blairmore boys started "rushing the cans" on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cardwell are taking up residence in one of Shaw's houses.

Judge McNeill presided at the sitting of the district court here on Wednesday.

After the "can" comes the "can't"—Can't find any more!

Miss Ryckman, of Calgary, spent a few days in town during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones, of the Coleman Bulletin, spent Wednesday afternoon in town.

Measles Johnson and Plante, of Coleman, spent Tuesday afternoon with friends in Blairmore.

M. E. Schofield came in from Fernie on Sunday to visit friends and make some adjustments.

Messrs. McLuskey and Brownell, of Calgary, have opened up a photographic studio in the Budd block.

Don't forget the Frank Rich Co., in "The Variety Isle" at the local opera house tomorrow night.

The district court sat in Blairmore on Wednesday of this week when a number of civil cases were disposed of.

The Moose Jaw Land Co., of Calgary, have opened up a branch of their real estate business in Blairmore.

The missing horses belonging to the West Canadian Collieries were located on Drain's daudelon ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Robert and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Briscoe autored to Cowley on Saturday to take in the sports.

A big special feature entitled "The Orleans' Coach" will be presented in three acts at the opera house tonight.

In a baseball match between the seniors and intermediates on Wednesday evening, the latter won in a score of 8-7.

The Crows' Nest Hardware building is now up near its new foundation west of the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium.

M. B. Dawson returned Sunday from Calgary, where he had been on business and in attendance at the McCarty-Pelley bout.

Harry Howard, formerly proprietor of the local Cosmo-politan hotel, was in town from Victoria, B. C., during the week.

Dick Marshall defeated Al. Ensign in the second round of a scheduled fifteen round bout at Fernie on Saturday night.

Even a resident of Coleman admitted this week that Blairmore had many advantages over Coleman, and above all in scenery.

Mr. Coates, Stewart's agent, who has been conducting a big sale for R. M. Briscoe since the 10th of this month, returns to Calgary this week end.

The children's basket ball team from the Coleman school will likely play a game with Blairmore on the local school square on Saturday afternoon.

J. Graham, who for the past year has managed the local branches at P. Burns & Co., is being transferred to Calgary and leaves for there next week.

Mrs. Kidd's maternity home Box 905, Phone 351.

A. Tweedy and Mrs. W. Tweedy were up from Landbeck on Thursday.

The "Prince of Tonight" play at Coleman opera house tonight, and enter upon an engagement at Lethbridge on Monday of next week.

The members of the Catholic church have made temporary arrangements whereby Rev. Father DeLoe, of Coleman, will conduct service here every Sunday in each month.

The ball given at Hillcrest on Tuesday night of last week under the auspices of the baseball club was well attended and a fair success both financially and socially.

A. P. Seale and A. S. Julian are still busy promoting the interests of "The Order of Owls." The Blairmore note contains a hundred birds, some of them considerably feathered.

The Tennis Club ball on Friday night was attended by a number of couples and proved an enjoyable affair. The Macleod five-piece orchestra furnished good music.

The traction engine used by C. W. Palmer in pulling the Frank buildings took to the water on Saturday. It was replaced on the road in a couple of hours, without any serious damage.

T. B. George did not kill a lucerne on Saturday as was reported. The animal turned out to be a chip-munk, the hide of which is now adorning the walls of a room at the Cosmo-politan.

The election of officers for Blairmore Lodge, I. O. O. F., took place Tuesday night. The officers elect are Joseph Montalbetti, N. G.; J. C. Gales, V. G.; A. Morency, R. S. Installation takes place on the 14th of Tuesday in June.

A visit to L. Thorne's residence on Ninth Avenue will impress one favorably with what can be done in Blairmore in poultry raising. Mr. Thorne is the possessor of a number of prize-winners, which include pure-bred white Wyandottes.

The Coal Creek footballers played a league game with Blairmore on the local grounds Saturday afternoon. The game resulted in a score of 7-0 in favor of the visitors. Some of the Blairmore boys came out "with eyelids heavy and red."

R. M. Briscoe's sale closes tomorrow, and we are informed was a success even beyond expectations. Stewart's agent, Mr. Coates, has had wide experience in the putting on of special sales and his engagement with R. M. Briscoe proves his efficiency and merits the advisability of occasional riddance sales. It's hard to get over Coats!

Rev. W. H. Muncester, B. D. Mrs. Muncester, and H. G. B. B. drove left for Toronto on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Muncester will be away several weeks, during which time they will visit Mrs. Muncester's home in Ontario. Mr. B. B. will return in about two weeks.

Line was this week drawn from the new line kiln just erected for the Frank Lime Co. by H. J. Foster of Blairmore. This reminds us we were in error a couple of weeks ago in quoting the dimensions of the kiln. The new kiln contains 600 cubic yards of cement and stone work instead of 600 cubic feet as was stated.

Spence Lyon, the booze dispenser at the Summit hotel, Crows' Nest, spent Tuesday in the Metropolis. During the afternoon Spence visited the electric car shop, and was agreeably surprised at the extent of the industrial activity of the capital of the Pass. He has been worrying of late over the loss of hair, and while in town visited artist Cardwell, who he claims is a regular hair-raiser.

Happenings in and Around Bellevue

The local band gave an open air concert Sunday, May 25th.

James Stubbs made a business trip to the North Park on Friday. Mr. Aspinall, district inspector of mines, was in camp this week.

The many friends of William Grafton are glad to see him around again.

Quite a crowd of Bellevue people took in the sports at Passburg on Saturday.

Edward Dicken arrived in camp from Gadsby, Yorkshire, England, this week.

S. J. Watson, of Blairmore, is at present managing the Bellevue drug store.

The order of Eagles are now occupying their new hall over the drug store.

Some members of the Bellevue band went to Coleman Saturday to help out.

The local tailor has moved his business to the building next to A. I. Blais' store.

David Hy-lap, of Coleman, will occupy the pulpit at the Methodist church on Sunday, June 1st.

W. Chappell's "Queen of the Wood" captured the first prize in the only race at Cowley on Saturday.

John Clark and Edward Barker arrived in camp this week from Denaby Main, Yorkshire, England.

The Bellevue band will give an open air concert on Sunday afternoon next at 3.30, weather permitting.

Dr. Delaney, of Edmonton, is attending to Dr. MacKenzie's practice while the latter is enjoying a vacation.

An Italian miner was slightly injured at No. 2 mine on Wednesday of last week. He is improving favorably at the hospital.

Joseph Stephenson was in camp this week, visiting his brother Thomas. He returned to his home in Chinook on Saturday.

The Bellevue footballers journeyed to Homer on Saturday to play a league game, in which they were victorious with a score of 1-0.

The Crows' Nest Hardware Co. have sold their stock to S. Humble. Mr. Humble will build a warehouse for the accommodation of the extra stock.

Fred Padgett has been elected delegate to the Methodist conference at Medicine Hat, and left for there in company with Rev. W. H. Irwin on Wednesday.

Each age of our lives has its joys. Old people should be happy, and they will be if Chamberlain's Tablets are taken to strengthen the digestion and keep the bowels regular. These tablets are mild and gentle for their action and especially suitable for people of middle age and older. For sale by all dealers.

Regulars Defeat 'Pickups'

The regular senior football eleven played Lyon's "pickups" last evening. The latter were defeated by a score of 4 to 1. The game was a fast one and was witnessed by a fair crowd.

The lineups were: Regulars—Goal, W. Pines. Backs, R. Griffith, D. Fraser. Half Backs, D. Dunlop, W. McGaw, H. Lambrecht.

Forwards, T. Williams, M. McGarry, W. Loys, W. Fraser, W. Joyce.

Pickups—Goal, A. H. Baker. Backs, H. E. Lyon, W. Turner. Half Backs, J. Harmer, R. Bartlett, C. E. E. Hlaacocks.

Forwards, W. Boyd, A. Williams, M. Semmen, H. Foulds and H. Flackney.

About The Pulmotor

The Canadian Mining Journal has the following to say about the pulmotor:

"This little device, which is so simple in operation, but is actually the result of years of research, has given results that are almost unobtainable in mining operations. There are many places where the necessity for such a device is felt more than in the ordinary coal mine. Many men have died in chemical works, electrical plants, steel works, and gas works, who could have been revived by timely use of this invention. The Commission of Conservation could not be wrong in recommending the provision of a 'pulmotor' for every city hospital, every large fire brigade, and in connection with all works where men run the risk of suffocating by gas or death from electrical shock.

The article will be particularly interesting to Lethbridge from the knowledge of the fact that the pulmotor has been already installed in the local mine. Its services are also at disposal when a devoted necessary elsewhere. In this matter we are up-to-date.—Lethbridge Herald.

Burns Will Sue

Minister For Libel

Calgary, Alta., May 25. Another charge in the course of the Alberta government prosecution of the principals in Saturday's fatal fire fight was made at a hearing late last night, when Tommy Burns and Arthur Pelley were committed to stand trial for manslaughter in connection with the death of Luther McCarty, and William McCarty and Eddie Smith were released on $200 bail each and ordered to appear as witnesses when the case is tried.

The bail of $4000 each for the release of Pelley and Burns, was continued.

The preliminary hearing given Pelley today was brief and the testimony practically a repetition of that of the inquest. The crown prosecutor questioned Burns, McCarty and Smith, closely regarding their connection with the fatal contest, but failed to draw from them any intimation that death was caused by the blow to the jaw, which, according to those who conducted the autopsy, resulted in the dislocation of the neck and subsequent death.

It was not certain tonight just what step the government would next take in connection with the case, but officials did not hesitate in stating the prosecution will be continued.

Dr. C. J. Stuart, who appeared in a medical capacity for the defendants, issued a statement tonight in which he declared it his belief that McCarty had suffered his injury in a previous fight and that the slightest blow would have caused his death.

One of the developments of the day was the suit for criminal libel filed by Burns against the Rev. J. C. Seasmore of the First Baptist church, who is said to have stated in the pulpit Sunday that the Saturday affair was murder pure and simple and that those promoting the contest should be deported. Burns declares he will file suit against other ministers who made similar remarks regarding the fight.

A sprained ankle may as a rule be cured in from three or four days by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle. For sale by all dealers.

Mrs. E. Reid, formerly cook at the Passburg hotel and latterly with the Alberta hotel, Blairmore, met with an accident on Wednesday, while horse riding. Mrs. Reid was thrown from her steed and sustained injuries which will cause her to lay off for some time.

BORN—At Mrs. Kidd's maternity home on Monday, May 26th, to Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bambrick, a son.

National Forestry Convention

The Canadian Forestry Association have announced July 7-9 as the date of the Dominion Forestry Convention to be held in Winnipeg. Arrangements are under way for what promises to be one of the most representative and successful gatherings ever held in the West. Delegates from all parts of Canada, and from many of the States of the Union, will convene in the Legislative Building Hall as guests of the Provincial Government and the city of Winnipeg, to discuss the problems of the forest resources of Canada.

The farmers' plantations, windbreaks and other phases of prairie tree growing will naturally occupy a large share of the attention of the delegates, but the protection of forests from fire, and kindred topics, will also be taken up.

The programme which is now in preparation, will be a most interesting one, and of this and of the convention railway rates to delegates, particulars may be had from James Lawler, Canadian Building Ottawa.

Briefs

Last year the Canadian Pacific railway company served about 10,000,000 meals in its trains and steamers, the average being more than 30,000 meals a day.

Burns' arena at Calgary, in which Luther McCarty met his fate, was totally destroyed by fire on Sunday morning last. This is generally conceived as the climax to prize fighting as far as Calgary is concerned.

At The Blairmore Opera House, Saturday, May 31st

Alberta Hotel

M. J. KING, MANAGER

Just Opened. New and Modern in every respect

We are pleased to offer the travelling public First-Class Accommodation. We particularly cater and pay strict attention to transient trade and guarantee satisfaction to all.

Our Bar is the Best Furnished Dispensary in Sunny Southern Alberta, and is stocked with the best and highest grades of Whisky, Liquors and Cigars. One half block from the Canadian Pacific Railway Depot.

Post Office Box 143,

Telephone 35.

Blairmore,

Alberta

THE INTERNATIONAL Coal and Coke Company, Ltd.

Operates the

DENISON COLLIERIES at COLEMAN, ALBERTA.

Mines High Grade Steam and Coking Coal. Manufacturers of the Best Coke on the Market.

MAKE MONEY EASY

If you would do so, invest in town lots in the most substantially founded and best business community in The Crows' Nest Pass.

THAT PLACE IS COLEMAN.

Write to or apply at the head office of

THE INTERNATIONAL Coal and Coke Company, Ltd.

At Coleman, Alberta.